Ohio Cremation Law

Beginning January 1, 2019, applicants must show proof of completion of a two hour Ohio crematory law course to obtain a permit to operate a crematory.

This two-hour course consists of an in-depth examination of Ohio's cremation laws and regulations. The eight-part analysis covers the legal aspects of licensing, right of disposition, requirements of the cremation authorization, crematory procedures and restrictions, cremation of donated bodies and body parts, disposition of cremated remains, crematory recordkeeping responsibilities, and statutory immunity for funeral homes and crematories. All attendees will be provided a copy of the comprehensive Ohio Cremation Law Manual which covers each of the topics being discussed at the workshop.

Two hours continuing education

T. Scott Gilligan is an attorney with Gilligan Law Offices, Cincinnati, OH. He serves as General Counsel to National Funeral Directors Association, the largest organization of funeral professionals in the country, and also serves as General Counsel for the Ohio Funeral Directors Association.
